Money, Finance, Bartering, Power, Survival... Most people in the world need money to survive; others need it for attainment of power; yet others think of it as a bane of their existence. There are the 99% 'ers and the 1% 'ers, and each has different ways of looking at money; the attainment and achievement of that money and what it means to them in their lives. There are those who feel money is so important they consider suicide if they lose it; and there are those who can't give it away fast enough to help others in dire straits. If you live in a society run by a monetary-based economy, you can't avoid it; if you live on a deserted island with a few other folks – barter becomes the money, and again – you realize you can't not have some means to represent your worth and your ability to survive. So you might as well develop a good attitude about money, let it work for you so you don't have to work so hard for it, and save for your future well-being. Enjoy these quotes – and definitely go forth and prosper!
